*Texas women and men killed
by their intimate partners in 2021*

VICTIM NARRATIVES

The Texas Council on Family Violence promotes cultural and systemic changes to prevent and end intimate partner abuse and uplift healthy, safe, respectful relationships.

We pause each year to reflect on the victims of intimate partner violence homicides and honor those whose lives were ended at the hands of their partners. We examine the conditions related to each homicide to identify potential systemic gaps for survivor safety and offer holistic approaches to addressing domestic violence in Texas communities.

In 2021, 204 Texans were victims of intimate partner homicide. This number includes 169 women and 35 men, including 12 LGBTQ+ victims. Homicide perpetrators also shot and killed 22 family members, friends, or bystanders, including 11 children ages 18 and below. During the homicides, perpetrators injured an additional 21 victims including four law enforcement officers, six children, and 11 family members and friends. Victims ranged in age from 16 to 85. Two hundred fifty-six adults and minor children lost a parent to domestic violence.

Their lives reflect the diversity and richness of Texas. Among the victims were educators, ranchers, cosmetologists, active and retired members of the armed forces, entrepreneurs, business managers, real estate agents, healthcare providers, immigrants, students, athletes, animal lovers, avid readers, artists, moms, dads, grandparents, brothers, sisters, sons, daughters, aunts, uncles, cousins and best friends. They sang in their church choirs and in their kitchens while making pancakes. They cheered at their children's games and supported their community members. They aspired to further their educations and careers, to provide for their families, to travel, to spend time at the beach, and to make their friends and family smile. Each of their deaths represents an incalculable loss to their loved ones and communities.

TCFV documents intimate partner homicides within our Texas communities on the following pages. Each confirmed fatality represents an individual killed in Texas by an intimate partner or a stalking perpetrator between January 2021 and December 2021. To offer a lens to enhance future survivor safety, TCFV highlights lethality risk factors within each narrative when the information is available.

Information regarding criminal charges and bond conditions in this report represents what was known about the status of criminal cases at the time of publishing. We hope that a thoughtful examination of each case shines much-needed light on improved prevention and intervention strategies to reduce domestic violence.

TCFV respectfully lists the names of each of the 204 victims of intimate partner homicide in 2021 and joins their families, friends, and communities in mourning each individual.
